THE PREFACE.

Reader.

G WILLIM, that Learned and Judicious Gentleman, having by his Display, freed Heraldry from the Charge of Confusion under which it labour'd, thereby engag'd the Gentry of this Nation to the Study of it, as a necessary and useful Art: But notwithstanding his Performance, excellent in its kind, notwithstanding the many Books since written, by others, the Glory of Heraldry has been ever since rather decaying than encreasing; The Reasons of which I conceive to be, Want of suitable Methods to teach, of Encouragement to practice, or due Deference paid to such as profess the Art. The two last are out of my Province, but I endeavour in this to furnish thee with Methods of learning, in Hopes to bring thee into a Habit of loving it.

Yet I would not be mistaken; Let no one think I set up this, as a Standard to try all Controversies of Arms by; for I confess with all Humility, that I am (like others) subject to Errors, and for a Work of this Nature, far unfit. My design then, is, (in Order to take away yet farther, the principal Objection against Heraldry) to present thee with some General Rules, in which 'tis impossible to mistake; some Particular ones, confirm'd by Authentick Writers, and Common Practice; with such Examples as are scatter'd up and down in Books, &c. If I have mistaken (as I believe I sometimes have) I desire those whose Arms they are set for, as well as those who have granted or recorded them, to excuse that Error, because I have mostly committed them by too close following the Authors I transcrib'd from, in whose time Bearings might possibly differ from what they are now. I say then, that such as wou'd without Fear of Challenging, be assur'd of their true Arms, ought to seek them in that Place which the Law has made their Repository, and not here, where they are incerted rather as Examples of Bearing and Blazon, than real, authoritative Arms; tho' indeed they are such.

I likewise desire the Reader to observe, that the Method I propos'd, of Printing the Arms of all the Peers, &c. would have left but little Room for the Arms of Gentlemen, and then 'twere impossible to give you all the Forms of Bearing; and on the other Hand, to have made the Book much larger, tho' some might like it, wou'd certainly have been displeasing to the Majority: So that I am not to be reflect'd on, but rather thanked, for not sticking to my own Proposals, seeing what I have done is more advantageous to the Buyer than that could have been: And this is the reason of that Deficiency there seems to be in the Alphabet of Examples, which really is not a Deficiency, because I never pretended to insert all the Names in England, which could not be contain'd in six times the Bulk.

On this Account I forbear making Excuses for that not above 1200 Arms are found here in all; they being (as I have observ'd) enough for a GRAMMAR, the Multiplicity of Coats which some People perhaps expected, would better suit the Title of DICTIONARY. However, in this Case, my little Grammar of 6s. is on a Level with the Voluminous Gwillim of 35s. their falacious Proposals containing a Promise of more Additions than the whole Book will contain, as I can easily make out.

I have added several Arms without Cuts, some useful Observations and Catalogues, more than propos'd, which I doubt not but thou wilt be well satisfy'd with, especially because they take up no Room but that of white Paper.

As for the Subscribers Arms, and what is said of 'em, I am not to answer for any thing therein, having printed no more than what they authoriz'd me to do, and is what they will answer.

There are some Faults escap'd the Press, which I have discern'd and taken Notice of elsewhere; there are more (perhaps) which are Faults, but not to my Knowledge: For the first Sort, as they are small and few, I hope to be forgiven, of the other I desire to be inform'd.

I am certain (with the Candid) I have sufficiently interceded for a favourable Acceptance of my first considerable Attempt, which they will be farther induc'd to, when they consider that Horace himself did no Wonders, 'till he was twelve Years older than I am. But however, to such as cannot relish this coarse Dish, I promise to study their Palates better, 'ere I write again.

But I had almost forgot to beg Pardon on the Cutter's Behalf, which he has desir'd me to do, when any Thing appears worse than was expected; some Charges by Reason of their smallness he has made Black, which should have been left White, some again, on the same Account, are not so well shap'd as they might else have been, and as for other Mistakes of his, they are corrected by the Blazon. He owns it to be his Fault, that you have been so long disappointed in the Publication, and thereby clears

Your much Obliged

Humble Servant, &c.

Introduction.

ALtho' I had design'd nothing less than to swell this Treatise into a large Volumn, yet the Multiplicity of Coats, that came importuning for Admittance into so useful a Tract, have oblig'd me to enlarge it beyond my first Intentions; for which Reason I shall drop the Account I would else have given, of the Invention, Antiquity and Dignity of Arms, lest it prove too cumbersome for the Pocket: Only, in brief we may observe, That in the very earliest Ages after the Flood, Nations began to distinguish themselves by Armorial Ensigns or Devices; insomuch that some say Ossyris (Grandson of Noah) was the Inventer of 'em, and that his own Device was, Jupiter, a Scepter Royal in pale, insigned at the Top with an Eye, Sol.

All the flourishing Kingdoms and States of the Old (or Poetick) World, that were any thing civiliz'd, had a different Portraict on their Shields, for Distinction;

the Athenians, who were Schollars, bore an Owl, the Bird of Pallas, their Goddess of Wisdom; the Persians, who used Bows and Arrows, had them for their Ensigns; the Romans, an Eagle; the Egyptians, an Oxe; the Phrygians, a Swine; and the Warlike Thracians, bore Mars the God of Battle.

The more Savage Countries (in Imitation of their Neighbours) took up the Fashion by Degrees, and so the Scythians painted a Thunderbolt in their Shields; the Corali, a People of Pontus, bare two Wheels.

The Heroes, of whom we read in Homer, Virgil, and other Poets, had their Shields adorn'd with some distinguishing Figure; Achillis had on his, the Celestial Sphere; Amphiarus, a Dragon; Capaneus, the Hydra; Polynices, a Sphinx; Agamemnon, a Lion; Ulysses, a Dolphin; Perseus, Medusa's Head, &c. These Instances are sufficient to show the Antiquity of Arms, and in some Measure, the Dignity and Use of them. I hasten therefore (in the two following Chapters) to give such plain Directions for Blazon and Marshalling, as are adapted to the meanest, yet worthy to be regarded by those of the highest Capacity.

Chap. I. Of Blazon.

BLAZON, Strictly taken, signifies, the Explication of Arms, in apt and significant Terms; more largely, it is taken for a Display of the Vertues of the Bearers of Arms. A certain French Armorist has comprehended both in a Word, viz. To Blazon is to express what the Shapes, Kinds, and Colours of things born in Arms are, together with their apt Significations. This Chapter will contain Nine Sections, whereof the first is,

Sect. I.

Sect. I. Rules of Blazoning in General.

1. IN Blazoning you must use an advised Deliberation before you enter thereinto, for having once begun, it argues an inconsiderate Folly to recall what you have said.

2. The fewer Words you make use of in blazoning a Coat, the better it is blazoned: Be cautious however, that while you endeavour to be short, you are not mysterious, and that you omit nothing which ought to be mention'd.

3. In Blazon you must take special Heed to Words, for Arms differently blazoned cease to be the same; and tho' one Coat may be blazoned two ways, yet they do then both come to the same, the Phrase only chang'd, as in the Arms of Akelont of Gloucestersh. in the following Sheets.

4. You must not be too full of Conceits in Blazon, nor over forward of Speech.

5. You must use no Repetition of Words, in the self same Coat, viz. the Names of Metals, Colours or Furrs, the Numbers of Ordinaries or Charges; but especially not of the Words

Or
And
With

} For the Repetition of these, is reckon'd
} an unpardonable Crime.

How to vary your Words, to avoid this Fault, you may see among others in the Arms of Cecil E. of Salisbury, Addison, Atkins of Saperton.

6. In blazoning you must have Regard to the things that are born in Arms, and to what they may be resembled, whether Natural or Artificial, and so commend them accordingly.

7. Begin to blazon with the Field, then proceed to the Charge, if any be: Also, if there be more Charges than one, you must evermore name that first, which is suppos'd to lie nearest the Field; see the Arms of Dyxtou, Capt. Aldridge, Villiers E. of Fersey, &c.

8. The Arms of Gentlemen, Knights, and all Persons not enobled, are to be blazoned by Metals and Colours; all the Degrees of Nobility have their Arms blazoned by Precious Stones; Emperors, Kings and Princes, by Planets; as hereafter will appear more plainly, by Rule and Example.

Sect. II. Accidents of Arms.

Those are called Accidents, which are not Necessary Parts, but such as being taken away or chang'd, the Substance of the Arms is still the same. They are two, Tinctures and Differences.

Paragraph 1. Tincture is the different Hew of Arms, and things born therein; and is common to the Differences, as well as to the Arms themselves.

Tincture is either of Colour or Furr.

Diatriba 1. We have nothing to do here with the Natural Colour of Things (tho' that also must be carefully regarded) but our Business is to make mention of such Colours only as are us'd in Heraldry; and they are Nine, viz.

Two Simple, as White and Black.

Seven Mixt, as Red, Yellow, Green, Blew, Purple, Tawny and Sanguine.

Note 1. The Two last seldom serve for the Colours of Fields, being called Stainand Colours, and used to signify some Disgrace, or Blemish of Honour or Virtue, in the Bearer; as you may read in the 3d Section of this Chapter, in the 2d. Diat. of the 1st. Parag.

Note 2. White and Yellow are called Metals, representing Silver and Gold, the rest Colours.

Note 3. That Coat is assuredly false, wherein there is Metal upon Metal only, or Colour upon Colour only, that is, Gold upon Silver, Silver on Gold, Blew, Red, &c. upon one another: But this Rule ceases, if a Coat be Paly, Barry, Quarterly, Checkie, or Party per Pale, Chevron, &c.

Note 4. In blazoning the Arms of Gentlemen, &c.

Yellow	} is called {	Or.
White		Argent.
Red		Gules.
Blew		Azure.
Black		Sable.
Green		Vert.
Purple		Purpure.
Tawney		Tenne.
Sanguine		Sanguine.

In the Arms of Noble- men.	} {	Topaz.	In the Arms of Kings, &c.	Sol.
		Pearl.		Luna.
		Ruby.		Mars.
		Saphire.		Jupiter.
		Diamond.		Saturn.
		Emerald.		Venus.
		Amethyst.		Mercury.
		Jacynthe.		Dragon's-Head.
		Sardonix.		Dragon's-Tail.

Diat. 2. Of Furrs; and they are in Heraldry, White; Ermine, which consists of White distinguish'd with Black Spots; Ermynes, which is Black powder'd with White; Erminois, Black powder'd with Yellow; Pean, the contrary; Ermynites, the same with Ermynes, only it has a Hair of Red on each Side the Black.

There are other Sorts of Doublings (or Furrs) differing from those I have mention'd, in Form and Name.

1. Verrey, which is compounded of Argent and Azure; an Example of which is in Dr. Atterbury's, Mr. Alton's of Gloucester. and many other Coats.

But if your Verrey consist of any other Metal, Colour or Furr, and not (jointly) of Argent and Azure, you must say Verrey of such a Metal and Colour or Furr; see the Arms of Duffield, Estanton and Drake of Greslow.

2. Potent-Counter-Potent, of which (because I do not remember to have seen it in all my Collections) the Form follows,

Neither do I find that it is fix'd to any Colours, but that the Blazoner is to name those whereof it does at any time consist.

3. Vaire, which (as some will have it) consists of four Colours together, viz. Argent, Gules, Or and Sable; but I chuse (with Gwillem) to make it the same as Verrey.

Parag. 2. Differences; Differences are extraordinary Additaments, whereby Bearers of the same Coat-Armour are distinguish'd each from others, and their nearness to the Principal Bearer is demonstrated.

Differences are { Ancient,
or Modern.

Diat. 1. For Differences in ancient Times they us'd Bordures and Imbordurings of several Sorts.

The Plain Border first, which is said to resemble the Fimbria's the Israelites wore on their Garment: And in blazoning must be called a Border, without mentioning its Plainness. The Content of the Border, is the fifth Part of the Field.

Note. When the Field and Border are both of one Tincture, you are not then to say, He beareth a Border, but He beareth such a Metal, Colour or Furr, Imbordured.

Besides this, there are other Borders, which consist of one Tincture only, but being compos'd of the different Lines, hereafter mention'd, have quite another Form.

Note.

Note. Some Borders consist of more Colours than one (these are mostly compos'd of the ftrait Line) and are

Counter-Componed, as in the Example following,

He beareth Azure, a Border Counter-componed, Or and Gules.——Counter-compony consisteth of no more than 2 Tracts.

Checkie, which is like the former, but that it consisteth of many Tracts.

Borders (as the Fields themselves) are subject to be charg'd with things Natural and Artificial; as with Birds, and then your Border is said to be charg'd with Enaluron of such or such Birds, to such a Number; Beasts, and then it is Enurmy; Vegitables, and then 'tis call'd Verdoy; Furrs, and then Perflew; a Border charg'd with things inanimate, of what kind soever, is said to be Entoyre. See the first Appendix.

There are several other Kinds of Borders, of which in the following Sheets you will find Examples.

Diat. 2. The Modern Differences, which not only distinguish Houses, but the different and subordinate Degrees in each, are, the File, Crescent, Mullet, Martlet, Annulet and Fleur de Lis. Of which view the following Scheme, which distinguish'd by Figures on the Top and in the Margin, shoy's the different Houses and Degrees.

It must be remember'd, that Sisters have no Differences, for they are always equal.

Sect. III. Essential Parts of Arms.

THE Parts of Arms are, The Escoccheon,
and
The Ornaments without the Escoccheon.

PARAGRAPH I. An Escoccheon is the Form of a Shield, of what Kind soever, so call'd of the Latin Word Scutum, which signifies the same thing. It consists of Points,

Points,
and Abatements.

Diatriba 1. Points, which are Nine, and denominate the several Parts of the Escoccheon; the Knowledge of which (as you will find hereafter) is of absolute Necessity: They are as follows,

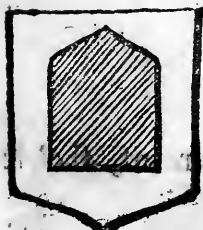

A	} is called	The Dexter Chief	} Point.
B		Precise middle Chief
C		Sinister Chief
D		Honour
E		Fesse
F		Nombril
G		Dexter Base
H		Exact middle Base
I		Sinister Base

Diat. 2. An Abatement is an accidental Mark annexed to Coat-Armour, denoting some ungentleman-like, dishonourable or disloyal Demeanor, whereby the Dignity of the Coat-Armour is greatly debased. They are these Nine.

He beareth Argent, a Delfe, Tenne: This is due to him that revoketh his Challenge, or eateth his Words.

He beareth Or, an Escoccheon reversed, Sanguine: This is given to him that discourteously useth a Maid or Widow, against her Will; or flies from his Sovereign's Banner.

He beareth Argent, a Point dexter parted: Given to a meer Braggadochio.

He beareth Or, a Point in Point, Sanguine: Which is due to one that does not demean himself well in Fight.

He beareth Or, a Point Champaigne, Tenne. A Diminution due to one that kills his Prisoner.

He beareth Or, a Plain Point, Sanguine. The Mark of a Tale-Bearer and Liar.

He beareth Argent, a Goare sinister, Tenne. The Reward of a Coward.

Note. A Dexter Goare is not an Abatement, tho' it should happen to be of a Stainand Colour.

He

He beareth Argent, two Gussets, Sanguine. In Abatement there can be but one Gusset; and he that is given to Lust shall wear it on the right Side, a Drunkard on the left. But two Gussets together do not imply a Disgrace, several Families bearing them, particularly that of Conningham, who bear Sable, two Gussets Argent.

Note. All the above Marks of Diminution, must be Sanguine or Tenne, which are Stainand Colours.

2. When you find two or more of 'em in an Escoccheon, it is not by way of Abatement, but Charge.

3. Judge the same (tho' single) if they be of any Metal, or charg'd upon.

The last (and worst) kind of Abatement, is call'd Reversing, and that is, when the whole Escoccheon is turned upside down, contrary to the usual Form of bearing: This is never given but to the finish'd Traiter.

The Second Paragraph of this Section will be spoken to in the next Chapter.

Sect. IV. The several Kinds of Escoccheons.

PLain Shields were anciently used, as many Authors testify, and as we may infer from the History of Solomon in our Bibles, and the Lives of Alexander Severus, and Alexander of Macedon, where Mention is made of Golden and Silver Shields, but not of any Portrait or Imbossment upon them. In the History of King Edward I. of England, Mention is made of Eumenius de la Brest, who bore his Shield only Gules.

Some have consisted only of Furrs, as among others (for Example) the Arms of Gresty of Drakelowe.

In all these there was no Distinction of Field and Charge; but Instances of this kind are very rare.

Sect. V. What Field and Charge are.

THE Field is the whole Surface of the Shield or Escoccheon, overspread with some Metal, Colour or Furr, and comprehendeth in it the Charge, if there be any.

Note 1. There are as many several Fields as there are Tinctures.

Note 2. When ever a Field consists of one only Metal or Colour, it is said, that in such a Coat, such a Colour or Metal does predominate. But in some Coats the Field consists of many Tinctures.

A Charge is whatsoever is contain'd in the Field, whether it occupy the whole, or only a Part thereof.

All Charges are Proper or Common.

Those which are common only to and in this Art, are called Proper or Honourable Ordinaries.

Such as are compos'd of things Natural or Artificial, are called Common Charges.

Sect. VI. The several Kinds of Honourable Ordinaries and their Diminutives.

Honourable Ordinaries are Nine, as follows,

1. The Cross, which contains the 5th part of the Escoccheon, when uncharg'd, and charg'd, the 3d. See the Arms of Allesbury.

2. Chief the 3d. See Worksty.

3. Pale the 3d. See an Example in the Arms of Aveskine, Dodge, &c.

A Pallet.

The Diminutives are,

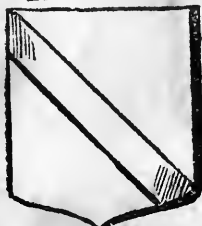

An Endorse.

4. Bend,

4. Bend, which contains when charg'd the 3d Part, uncharg'd the 5th part of the Escoccheon; and has the following Diminutives,

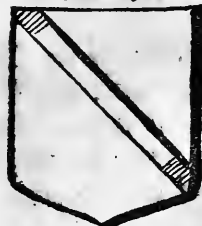

A Bendlet.

A Gartier.

A Cost.

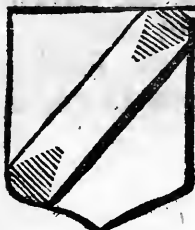

A Riband.

There are also Bends Sinister, with proper Diminutions, as,

The Bend.

A Scarpe.

A Battune.

Note. The Battune is a Mark of Bastardy; and every Bearer may have it of what Colour he please, but only the spurious Sons of Princes, may bear them of Metal or Furr.

5. Fesse, containing the 3d part of the Escoccheon; see the Arms of Abbehall.

6. Escoccheon the 5th part; see Hulgreve's Coat.

7. Chevron, containing the 5th, or as others, the 3d part of the Escoccheon; see one in the Arms of Avoue. Its Diminutives are,

A Chevro.

A Chevronel.

A Couple-Close.

There is extant a rare Example of bearing a Chevron, which I have thought fit to insert, for that Reason.

He beareth Or, a Chevron in Chief, Azure. This Charge (saith Gwilim) was not remov'd from its proper place, without good reason; newertheless, the Bearing it as usual, had been better.

8. The 8th Ordinary is the Saltire, which uncharged has the 5th, charg'd, the 3d part of the Escoccheon; there is a plain Saltire in the Arms of Aston.

9. A Bar, containing the 5th part of the Field, of which there are in the Book, numerous Examples: The Diminutives are,

A Clofet.

A Barulet.

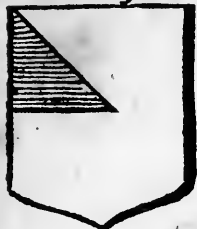

Note 1. When you have any of the Ordinaries born plain, you need not mention their Plainness, for that is their natural Form.

Note 2. All or most of these may be born, inveck'd, ingrail'd, indented, &c. voided, couped, cotised or surmounted, as in the 8th Section will further appear.

There

There are other Common Charges, which tho' they do not take upon 'em the Title of Honourable, are yet of Worthy Bearing, as

The Gyron.

And these you will find born, not on-ly single and in Pairs, but by the six, eight, ten or twelve together.

The Canton, of which you have an Example in the Arms of Basset of Uleigh, Carey of London, and others.

A Quarter; see Estanton's Coat.

A Pile, for the Shape and different Bearing of which, both as to Position and Number, see many Examples in the Pages following, particularly the Duke of Newcastle's.

The three following are the same secundum quid (as to their Form) but not secundum quantum (as to Magnitude, and in this Book there are some few Examples of 'em.

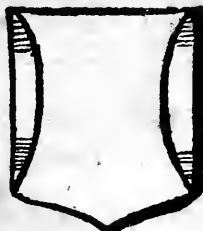

Flanches.

Flasques.

Voiders.

An Orle, of which you will find Examples; as also of Common Charges born in Orle, or Orlewife.

I purposely forbear to mention the several Kinds of Crosses, because such as are now used in Arms, are very frequently to be found.

ALL Ordinaries are suppos'd to be made of a strait Line; therefore when they are compos'd of a crooked one, you are to take particular Care to mention such Crookedness by a proper Appellation.

The following Scheme contains such Forms of Lines as are used in Heraldry, with their proper Names against them, viz.

Inveck'd.
Ingrail'd.
Wavy.
Nebule.
Crenelle.
Indented.
Dancette.

The Lines Indented and Dancette do not differ in Form, but Quantity; the last being much larger and deeper than the other.

Sect. VIII. Some few Coats referr'd to, for the diverse bearing of several Ordinaries.

i. THE Cross is born Plain, in the Arms of Al-lesbury, Hufley, Shelton, Wall, Smith, of Suffolk, Rainsford, &c. Voided, Atkinson of Stowel. Voided wavy, Duckensfield. Couped voided, Woodnoth. Couped peirced, Grill. Peirced, Ralphson. Ingrail'd, Norwood, Warner of Norfolk, Micketfield, Cadul, &c. Checkie, Paris of Lincoln, Whitney, &c. Surmounted, Milton. Riguled, Warner of Suffolk.

2. A Chief is found Plain, in the Arms of Bruce, Scambler, Workley, Sylgard, &c. Crenelle, Ryncefter. Indented, Escourt, Basset, Butler, Dyer, Blackhall, &c. Nebule, Roydenhall. Verrey, Wilcocks.

3. A Plain Pale is in the Arms of Wyche and Woodward. Cotised, Heathcot. Radiant Rayonnee, Colman.

4. A Plain Bend in the following Coats, viz. Callis, Delyne, Whetnall, Annesly, &c. Indented, Craycroft. Cotised, Bowyer, Plummer, Wingate. Voided, Pulter, Ireton, &c. Lozengy, Lenthal, Pye. Wavy, White, Anteshye, Webster, Wallop. Dancette, Carrick, West of Oxford. Ingrail'd, Waller of Suffolk, Colepeper, &c. Flory, Kelke. Crenelle, Walleys. Raguled, Warner of Essex, Payne of Cambridge.

5. There is a Plain Fesse in Covil's, Carsey's, Abbehall's, Burkin's and Winter's Coats. Checkie, Courtis, Wright of York. Ingrail'd, Ely, Ashfield, Slyfield, Appleton, &c. Dancette, Plowden, Vavasour, West of Bucks, Somers, &c. Verrey, Wright of Surry. Wavy, Weld of Lancashire, Hawes, Watson, &c. Cotised, Weaver, Smith of Devon. Nebule, Weld of Salop, Thorpe, Harewell. Raguled, Payne of Norfolk. Crenelle, Glover.

6. The Chevron is born Plain in the Arms of Stafford, Avene, Barlow, Warwick, &c. Ingrail'd, Child of Essex, Wood of Gloucester, Wilford, Smallpiece of Norfolk. Voided, Pynfold. Verrey, Wilmore, Wilkinson of Kent. Cotised, Smith of Surry. Quarterly, Wincoll. Rompe, Sault, Allen.

7. Plain Saltires are frequent, as in the Coats belonging to Crathorn, Wakeman of Gloucester, Williams of Pembroke, &c. Ingrail'd, Clarke of Creeton, Polwheel, Wotton, Watton. Flory, Webber. Verrey, Willington. Surmounted of another, Andrews. Surmounted of a Cross, Prince.

These few Forms of Bearing, and the Instances of them, I made Choice of to mention here, not because there are no others, or that all of 'em may be found in the following Sheets, but because they are such as

I cou'd most readily call to mind. — I suppose I need make no Apology for inserting a Section of this Nature, seeing (as 'tis a Sort of Table to the Ordinaries) it can scarce fail of being useful to the Reader.

Sect. IX. Cautions: Containing the Names of Roundles, Guttees, and other Matters.

IN Heraldry there are several Kinds of Charges, which tho' alike in Form, differ in Name, either by reason of their Colour, or some Dissimilitude in their Shape; not very conspicuous.

Of the 1st. Sort are the Guttees and Roundles.

The Word Guttee in French signifies a Drop; and whatever Charge or Field these are found upon, such Charge or Field (according to the Tincture of the Drops) is said to be Guttee

If	}	Yellow	}	d' Or,	}	of Gold.
		White		d' Eau,		of Water.
		Green		d' Olive		of Oil Olive.
		Blew		de Larmes,		of Tears.
		Black		de Poix,		of Pitch.
		Red		de Sang,		of Blood.

So likewise Roundles, according to their different Colours, have new Names assign'd them; for

If they be	}	Yellow	}	They are called	}	Befants.
		White				Plates.
		Green				Pomeys.
		Blew				Hurts.
		Black				Ogresses. *
		Purple				Golpes.
		Tawny				Oranges.
		Sanguine				Guzes.
Red	Torteauxes.

* Or Pellets.

But

But when they are so born as to be counterchang'd, you can call them nothing but Roundles, as in the Arms of Abtot, once Earl of Worcester, which is, Per Pale Topaz and Ruby, three Roundles counterchang'd. Take the same Course, when the Drops above mention'd are counterchang'd, of which you have an Example in Mr. Gwillim's Display of Heraldry, p. 370. viz. the Arms of Grindour.

Of the second Sort, viz. Such as seem alike in Form, yet differ really both in Shape and Name, are

The Fusil.

The Lozenge.

The Masle.

The Difference to be observ'd in them is, That the Fusil is longer than the Lozenge, and narrow; the Lozenge has between the two middle Angles as much or more Space, as the Length of either of the Lines 'tis made of; and the Masle is always voided, i. e. the Field is seen thro' the middle of it.

And thus have I finish'd what I thought necessary to mention concerning Blazon, which I hope will be to Satisfaction: I now proceed to the Rules of Marshalling.

Chap. II. Of Marſballing.

Marſballing is an orderly beſtowing of Things,

Sect. I. Within } the Eſcocheon.
Sect. II. Without }

Sect. I. Of the Diſpoſition of divers Coat-Armours in one Shield (or Eſcocheon) which is the firſt Part of Marſballing.

Coat-Armours of different Families, are Marſhalled in one Eſcocheon, on Accounts, Maniſt or Obſcure.

The Maniſt Reaſons are, (I.) Marriages. (II.) The Gift of the Sovereign.

(I.) Under the Firſt Head we muſt obſerve, That ſometimes only two Coats are born together, conjoined Paleways in one Eſcocheon, and this is called Baron and Femme; concerning which take the following Notes.

I. The Arms of the Man are always to be placed on that Side of the Eſcocheon which lies to your left Hand, for in Heraldry that is the Right (or Dexter) Side.

If a Man do marry two Wives, he ſhall bear his Shield per Pale, on the Sinifter Side his two Wives Coats, the firſt in Chief, the ſecond in Baſe. If three Wives, the two firſt ſhall have the Chief Part, the third all the Baſe. If he have a fourth Wife, ſhe muſt participate of the Baſe, with the third Wife.

I remember to have ſeen in ſome Author, an Example of a Baron impal'd between his two Femmes, viz. the

the first Wife on his Dexter, the second on the Sinister; but I cannot find that such a Form of Marshalling is common or commendable.

2. No Man can (legally) impale his Wife's Arms with his own, unless such Wife was an Heiress.

Nevertheless, Custom has so far prevail'd, that all who have married Women whose Parents bore Arms, do joyn their Wives Arms with their own. Whether they ought to do so, or not, I leave to be decided by such skilful Heralds, whose Province 'tis determine things of this Nature.

3. In the Arms of all Femmes, joyn'd to the Paternal Coat of the Baron, the proper Differences by which they were born by the Fathers of such Women, must be inserted.

4. If a Coat-Armour that is Bordered, be joyn'd in Pale with another, as a Marriage, then shall that Part of the Border, (whether of the Baron or Femme's Coat) which is next to the other, be wholly omitted.

Note here; That all Archbishops and Bishops do bear their own Arms thus impal'd with that of their See, only, Honoris Causa, the Dexter Side is given to the See. Also Note; That the Bishop of Winchester being always Prelate of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, has the whole of his Arms environ'd by the Garter, as tho' he were a Knight Companion.

The Kings at Arms do also sometimes marshall the Arms of their respective Office, with their Paternal, taking the Sinister Side to themselves.

2. Unto this Head also must be referr'd the Escoccheon of Pretence; and herein the Person that marries an Heiress, has a Priviledge above others; for after Issue receiv'd by such Wife, he is at Liberty whether he will continue to bear her Arms impal'd, or on an Escoccheon of Pretence, in the Centre of his own Coat or Coats.

An Escoccheon of Pretence is so call'd, because he that bears it does pretend (God willing) to maintain in his Family, the Inheritance receiv'd by his Wife.

3. The

3. The Eldest Son of such a Match as is just mention'd, doth bear the Arms both of his Father and of his Mother, Quarterly, i. e. twice each; and that because he is Heir to the Inheritance of both, as well as to their Arms. There are some Examples of this Kind in the following Sheets, as that of Ld. Arundel, Mr. Walker, and others.

(II.) Under the second Head, viz. Such Forms of Marshalling as manifestly betoken a Sovereign Gift, are those given of special Favour, or Remuneration of Service.

Of the first Sort are all such Armorial-Signs as the Sovereign thinks fit (for the Honour of the Bearer) to annex to a Coat-Armour: Which are marshall'd Paleways or otherwise. In all such as are plac'd Paleways, the Dexter Side (ob Reverentiam Munificentia Regalis) is to be given to the added Coat.

Those marshall'd otherwise, have the whole Sovereign Ensigns, or a Part of them, in or upon some Part of their Escoccheon. His Grace the D. of Somerset bears Or, on a Pile Gules between six Fleurs de Lis Azure, 3 Lions of England. His Grace the Duke of Beaufort bears, Quarterly France and England, within a Border compone, Argent and Azure. Other Examples may be observ'd in reading.

Among such Augmentations as these, we may add, the Baronet's Mark, or Arms of the Province of Ulster in Ireland, which was granted to them by King James I. who began this Dignity, and for certain Monies paid toward the Plantation of the said Province, created divers into it. The Arms are, Argent, a Sinister Hand couped, Gules.

The second Kind, which are given for Remuneration of Service, to such as are employ'd in Warfare, or in Civil Affairs, are 1st. Such Badges as belong to the several Orders of Knighthood, every Companion having Right to joyn them with his Paternal Coat.

2dly. He that takes Prisoner in lawful Wars, some General, Admiral, or other Person of Note, has sometimes times the Arms of his Prisoner joyn'd to his own, in a Canton or otherwise; where note, that in blazoning such Additament, 'tis no Fault to repeat the Names of Tinctures, &c. used in the Coat.

Hitherto the Occasions of Marshalling divers Coat-Armours in one Shield, are manifest; now I come to treat of such as be obscure, that is, when Hereditary Coats are so Marshall'd, as that the Beholder cannot give any probable Conjecture why they are so join'd, and often cannot tell whether they are two Coats or but one.

Upton gives the two differing Rules, both for discovering and ordering things of this Nature.

He says, ' When a Man has large Possessions by his Mother, and little by his Father, he may bear his Mother's Arms on the nether part of the Shield, and his Father's on a Chief.

Again, ' It is certainly the best way of bearing divers Arms in one Escoccheon, to marshal one as an entire Coat, the other on a Bend, &c. But these two are dislik'd by many Armorists, who reckon them Conceited Forms.

The like may be said concerning that odd Form of marshalling the Baron's Arms, viz. Paleways between his two Wives, of which Blome has an Example.

SECT. II. Of Things Marshall'd without the Escoccheon.

AND here, e're we proceed further, 'tis proper to tell you what an Atchievement is in Heraldry; and according to Leigh, 'tis the Arms of every Gentleman, well marshall'd, with the Supporters, Helmet, Wreath and Crest, with Mantle and Words. But the proper Term of this in Blazon, is Heaume and Timbre: The first seems deriv'd of the French Word Heaulme, which we translate Helmet, the other is a Dutch Word, signifying Apex, i. e. the very Top.

In Order to understand the true Manner of placing the Ornaments just mention'd, let us consider each of 'em singly: But we must observe, that the Ornaments of an Atchievment are placed either above, under, round about, or on each Side of it.

Of such as are plac'd Above the Atchievment, that which comes first to be observ'd is the Helmet, whereof there are several Forms, for as there are sundry Degrees among the Bearers, they are all distinguish'd (in some sort) by their Helmets; for

The Esquire bears a sidelong Helmet, after this Manner; as it were attentively beholding his Master the Knight, to receive his Commands; for an Esquire has his Name of bearing the Shield, quasi Scutifer, and in time past, each Knight had two of these to attend him, wherever he went, who bare his Helmet and Shield.

The full-fac'd Helmet signifies Direction and Command, and therefore this here, is proper to the Dignity of Knight-hood: It is greater Honour to bear the Beaver open, than close, the close signifying a buckling of it on, as a Preparation to Battle, the open Beaver betokening a Return from Battle with Victory, i Kings xx. 11.

This Sidelong Helmet, open, with the Gard de Visor over the Face, is common to all the Degrees of Peerage under a Duke. For Leigh allows none lower than a Baron to bear them.

A Duke is the lowest that may bear his Helmet in this Manner; for it properly belongs only to Sovereign Princes, or such who have the Government of free States or Countries. Now concerning the placing of Helmets, take these following Notes:

1. For

1. For the Way of placing a single Helmet, you need only look on the Figures in the former Page.

2. If you have two Helmets on one Shield, they must be plac'd as it were looking towards one another.

3. When you have three, let the middlemost be looking directly forward, and the others towards it.

The next in Order of the Exterior Parts of an Atchievment, is the Mantle, which with us is taken for a long Robe. This was a Military Habit, used by great Commanders to preserve their Armour from the damage that might come to it by Rain, Snow, &c. Perhaps it was the same with the Toga Militaris of the ancient Romans. What we now a-days call Mantling, may better be call'd Flourishing, for 'tis not to be imagin'd, that such jagged and frownced Stuff as is in use, was ever design'd to keep off Cold or Rain, which was undoubtedly the first Occasion of the Invention of Mantles.

But in Blazoning (what ever Name you chuse to call 'em by) you must ever more say that they are doubled, i. e. lined throughout with some one of the Furrs above nam'd.

Next to the Mantle, the Cognisance doth take Place, and is seated upon the most eminent Part of the Atchievment, yet so that it admitteth the Interposition of some Escroll, Wreath, Chapeau, Crown, &c. and is call'd a Cognisance, a cognoscendo, because by them such Persons as do wear them are eminently known whose Servants they are.

I will now proceed to treat of such things as are sometimes interpos'd between the Mantle and the Crest, beginning with those of inferior Rank, and so proceeding to the better Sort.

Altho' Examples of a Crest on an Escroll, of this, or some other like Form, be now worn out of Use, yet formerly it was of so great Estimation, that none under the Degree of a Knight was suffer'd to bear it. And it may be observed, that even now our most noble Prince of Wales, so beareth his Badge.

The Wreath (or Torce) so call'd because made of Silk of two or more Colours) is an Ornament of the Head, in use with the Turks and Saracens. For the orderly composing hereof, you must evermore begin with the Metal, and end with the Colour.

This Kind of Headtire, is call'd A Cap of Dignity, which Duke's accustomed to wear in Token of Excellency; as also great Commanders, for Testimony of their Triumphs and Victories. This Cap must be of Scarlet Colour, and lin'd with Ermine.

Next to these are the several Sorts of Crowns and Coronets, of which the following are Icons.

King.

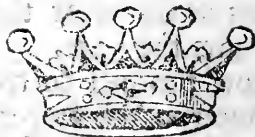

Prince.

Duke.

Marquis.

Earl.

Viscount.

Baron.

Such

Such Ornaments as environ the Coat-Armour, are the Badges of the several Orders of Knighthood; where 'tis to be observ'd, that if any Person be a Member of two of 'em, he shall place the Ornament of one next to his Shield, and the other without.

Things placed on the Side, are either Living, and then to be called Supporters; or Dead, and then you must say the Arms are Cotised of such and such things. Note. None of less Degree than a Baron, is allow'd to bear his Arms cotised and supported.

The last Ornament proper to an Atchievment, is the Motto or Word, which is the Conceit of the Bearer, in three or four Words, set in an Escroll or Compartment at the Foot of the Escoccheon, and is to be last blazoned.

Observe upon the whole, That in blazoning these Ornaments, 'tis no manner of Fault to repeat any Term of Art, Names of Tinctures, &c. twice.

And now, to illustrate what has been said, take the following Examples, by which every Rule before given will be fully explain'd.

The

The Atchievement of an Esquire, or Gentleman.

IN Gratitude to the Rev. Mr. Joseph Bokenham, Rector of Stoake Ash in the County of Norfolk, who has been on several Accounts an Encourager of this Book, I make bold to insert his Coat here, with proper Ornaments, tho' that Gentleman has modestly refus'd to communicate to us the suitable Instructions, having only sent the Coat and Crest, without Quarterings; He beareth Argent, a Lion rampant Gules, armed and langued Azure. Crest. On a Torce Argent and Gules, a Lion rampant as in the Coat.

The

THE Right worshipful Sir Nicholas Carew of Bedington in Surry, Baronet, bears quartered Twelve Coats, viz. 1st Or, three Lioncels passant Sable, on a Canton Argent, a dexter Hand coupéd at the Wrift Gules. 2d. Argent, three Snakes nowed proper. 3d.
Gules, a dexter Arm proper, habited with a Maunch
Ermine, holding a Fleur de Lis Or. 4th. Quarterly Sable and Argent. 5th. Gules, a Fesse checkie Sable and Argent, between six Cross-Crofflets of the third.
6th.

xxxviii The GRAMMAR

6th. Azure, three left Hand Gauntlets Argent. 7th. Ermine, on a Chief Azure, three Cross-Pattees Argent. 8th. Azure, a Frett Argent, and Chief Gules. 9th. Or. A Lion rampant double quevee Sable. 10th. Gules, a Fesse dancette between six Cross-Croslets Or. 11th. Barry of six Ermine and Gules, over all three Crescents Argent. 12th. Argent, three Piles wavy issuing out of the chief, and meeting near in Base Vert, within a Border Azure, charg'd with entoyre of ten Bezants. In the Nombrial Point an Escoccheon of Pre-rence Argent, three Fleurs de Lis in Bend, between 2 Cotises Gules, all within the Escoccheon, and above it a Helmet befitting his Degree, mantled Gules, doubled Argent; over which is placed a Torce Or and Gules, above, a demy Lion rampant between six half Pikes, bendways dexter and sinister, all issuing from the Top Mast Head of a Ship, Or. The whole Supported on each Side by an Antilope Gules, attir'd and unguled Or, and for the Motto, Nil conscire sibi.

N. B. Tho' the above Arms are found to be Supported, let not the Reader inferr, that all Knights or Baronets may bear theirs so, for this Honourable Person, having had the Peerage in his Family, retains the same form of bearing with his Noble Ancestors.

And in the said Escrole this Motto, Dieu et Mon Droit.

HERALDRY.

HAVING in the Preface hereto accounted for that Deficiency which there seems to be in the Alphabetical following of Names, and in the Precedent Rules, having given such General Instructions as I thought needful; the Examples following shall furnish out such Particular Observations, as will be farther useful.

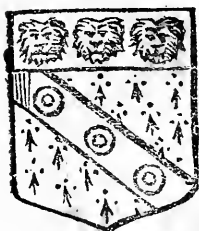

Abbehall of Gloucestershire; The Field is Or, a Fesse Gules. The Name of this Ordinary comes from a Word which in French signifies the Loins of a Man; 'tis taken in Heraldry for Cingulum Honoris, a Belt of Honour.

Abbington of Dowdeswel in Gloucestershire; He beareth Argent, on a Bend Gules, three Eaglets displaid, Or. Crest. A dexter Arm proper, girded about the Elbow with a Scarff Argent, holding a Halberd Sable, the Head and Pick at the End Or.

Abrahall of Herefordshire; The Field is Azure, three Hedghogs Or. The bearing of a Hedghog, signifies a provident Man, who watchfully lays Wait for, and Hold on, every Opportunity to advance himself.

Addison, (now a Member of Parliament for Malmsbury); The Field is Ermine, on a Bend Gules, three Annulets Or, a Chief Azure, charg'd with as many Leopard's Heads of the third. In this and the like Places, the Words, Charged with, and of the Third, are used to avoid repeating of the Words, On and Or, which Repetition you have been directed always to shun.

Ainge of London; He beareth Azure, a Chevron Ermine, between three Cross Pattees Argent. These Crosses are very properly called Pattees, because their Ends are Patulae, broad and open.

Aklont of Gloucestershire; The Field is Argent, on a Bend cotised (or, on a Bend between two Cotises) Gules, three Martlets Or. These are called Cotises or Costs, from the Latin Word Costa, a Rib, because they are plac'd on each Side the Ordinary.

Adam; Azure, one Ray of the Sun, issuing out of the dexter Corner of the Escoccheon, proper. There is no need to mention the three Lines on each side the Ray, because there are no such in Nature, but the Lustre of the Sun, being too strong for our Eyes, causes us to imagine such things to be about it.

Aldridge,

of HERALDRY. A

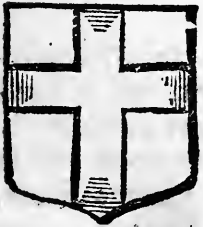

Aldridge, (Capt.) He beareth Gules, on a Chevron between three Eagle's Heads eraz'd Argent, as many Lozenges of the first. The Term eraz'd comes from the Latin Word erado, to rent off, or the French arrasher, which signifies the fame.

Allen of Essex; He beareth Sable, a Cross Potent Or. It may also be blazoned, a Cross Crowche, from the Resemblance each Extremity bears to the Head of a Crowch (or Crutch) which Chaucer calls a Potent.

Allen of London; The Field is Party per Fesse Gules and Sable, a Chevron rompe between three Griffin's Heads erazed Ermine. The Term Rompe, is deriv'd from the French Rompu, or the Latin Rumpus, which both signify, Broken.

Allesbury or Aylesbury; He beareth Azure, a Cross Argent. Here you need not mention the Plainness of the Cross, nor must you when any other Ordinary is so born.

Amades of Plymouth; The Field is Azure, a Chevron Ermine between 3 Oaken Slips, acorn'd proper.

The GRAMMAR

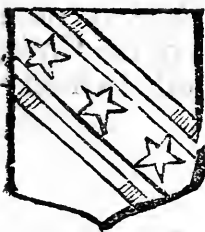

Ambeface; He beareth Or, three Dice Sable, each charg'd with an Ace Argent.

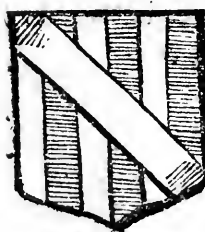

Anderson of Scotland; He beareth Azure, a Lion rampant Argent, and in Chief three Mulletts of the same. A Lion rampant must be esteem'd in Scottish Heraldry, to be a very noble bearing, because it participates of the Armorial Ensigns of that Kingdom.

Andrews of Buckinghamshire; The Field is Gules, a Saltire Or, surmounted of another Vert. The Saltire in old Time was of the Height of a Man, and being driven full of Pins, used to scale the Walls of Towns, which then were very low.

Andrews of Harsfield in Gloucestershire; He beareth Argent, on a Bend cotised Sable, three Mulletts of the first. Leigh saith, That Coat-Armour whose Field is Argent, and the Charge Sable, is the most fair kind of Bearing.

The Rt. Hon. Arthur Annesley, E. of Anglesea, bears; Paly of six, Pearl and Sapphire, a Bend Ruby. The Bend seems to have its Name of the French Word Bender, to stretch forth. Some Armorists say it represents a Scaling-Ladder.

Antesbye;

of HERALDRY. A

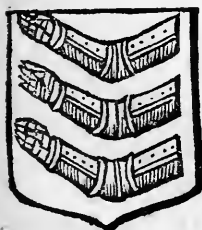

Anteshye; Party per Pale, Or and Argent, a Bend wavy Gules. The Term Wavy, or Unde, is used, because of the Resemblance this sort of Line has to the boisterous Waves of the Sea.

Appleton of Essex; He beareth Argent, a Fesse engrail'd Sable, between three Apples, leaved proper.

Areskine of Scotland; The Field is Argent, on a Pale Sable, a Cross Pattee-Fitche of the first. Guillim in blazoning the same Charge, says, A Cross Pattee on 3 parts, and Fitched in the fourth. The Reader in all such Cases, where a Coat can be differently blazoned, may use which Form he please.

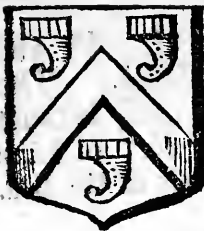

Armstrong; He beareth Gules, three dexter Arms vambrac'd proper. This Coat is very well adapted to the Bearer's Name, and serves to denote a Man of excellent Conduct and Valor.

Arnold of Gloucestershire; The Field is Gules, a Chevron Ermine between three Pheons Or. Crest. A demy Tyger Or, Pellety. Pheons are the Iron Heads of Darts, which formerly were used in Wars; and the bearing of them is both ancient and commendable.

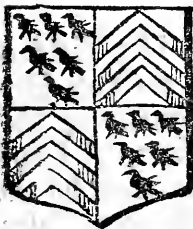

Arthur

Arthur of Clopton in Somersetsh. The Field is Argent, a Chevron between 3 Organ-Rests Gules.

The Rt. Hon. Tho. Arundel L. Arundel of Wardour, beareth; Diamond, six Swallows (3, 2, 1.) Pearl. Crest. A Wolf passant Pearl.

The Rt. Hon. John Arundel L. Arundel of Trerice, beareth; Quarterly, 1st and 4th. Diamond, six Swallows (3, 2, 1.) Pearl; 2^d. and 3^d. Diamond, three Chevronels Pearl.

The Bishoprick of St. Asaph has for its Seal; Sable, two Keys in Saltire, Argent.

Ascough of Lincolnshire; He beareth Argent, a Fesse between three Asses passant Sable. The Ass is an Emblem of Patience, as well as of Stupidity and Sluggishness; and in Arms, every thing is to be interpreted according to its best Quality.

of HERALDRY. A

The Rt. Hon. John Ashburnham Ld. Ashburnham, beareth; Ruby, a Fesse between six Mulletts Pearl. Mulletts are those Meteors which the ignorant call Falling-Stars; in blazoning you need not mention their Points, unless they have more than five.

Ashfield of Suffolk; The Field is Sable, a Fesse engrail'd between 3 Fleurs de Lis Argent. Crest. A demy Eagle displaid Argent, his Wings pendant.

Ashmole of Staffordshire; He beareth Quarterly, Gules and Or, in the first a Fleur de Lis Argent.

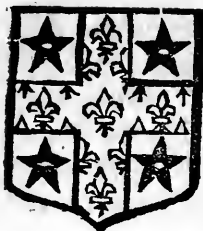

Aston of Cheshire; He beareth Sable, a Saltire Argent.

Aston of Gloucestershire; The Field is Gules, a Lion rampant Argent, over all a Bend vaire. It might be blazoned, debruis'd by a Bend vaire. This Form of bearing is of some dislik'd, as tho' it carried with it a Mark of Oprobry; whether it does or no, I shall not take upon me to determine.

Atkins

of Bucks, where you have a Saltire surmounted.

Atlowe; The Field is Argent, a Chevron between three Carpenter's Squares Sable.

Dr. Francis Atterbury Ld. Bishop of Rochester, beareth; Paly of six, Or and Gules, a Chief vair.

Audyn of Dorchester in Dorsetshire; The Field is Argent, on a Cross Gules five Lioncels rampant Or. The Generous and Lordly Nature of the Lion, will not bear a Rival in the Field; and therefore two Lions cannot be born in one Coat-Armour, but they must be suppos'd to be Lion's Whelps, call'd therefore Lioncels.

of HERALDRY. A

cels. But when (as in the Arms of Atkinson, above mention'd) some Ordinary is so interpos'd, as that they seem to be separated from each other, they may be called Lions.

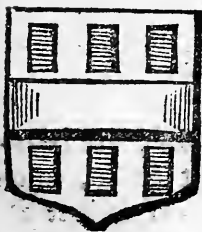

Avene; He beareth Gules, a Chevron Argent. The Chevron has its form of the Barge-Couples or Rafter, which Carpenters set on the highest Part of the House, to bear up the Roof.

Avenell; The Field is Argent, a Fesse between six Annulets Gules.

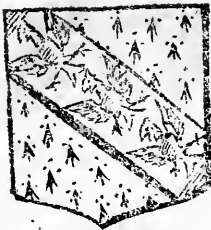

Ambrey of Glamorganshire; He beareth Azure, a Chevron between three Eagle's Heads eraz'd Or.

Aylworth; The Field is Argent, a Fesse between six Billets Gules. The Billet in Armory is taken for a Piece of Paper, folded up in Form of a Letter.

The GRAMMAR

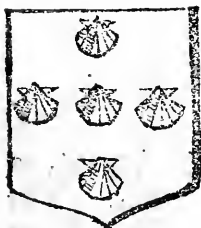

Badger of Hall-Place near Prestbury, in Gloucester. The Field is Ermine, on a Bend Gules three Eaglelets displaid Or. Crest. A Stag's Head cabosh'd Sable, between the Horns a Greyhound currant Argent, collared Or.

Baker of Norfolk; The Field is Gules, a Goat passant Argent. The Martial Man who uses more Policy than Valour in gaining a Victory, may well bear this Creature.

The Bishoprick of Bangor has for its Seal; Gules, a Bend Or, Guttee de Poix, between 2 Mulletts Argent, pierced of the Field. The Term Guttee de Poix, is French, and signifies Drops of Blood.

Barker of Fairford in Glouc. He beareth Azure, five Escallops in Cross Or. Crest. On a Mount averdant proper, a Falcon displaid Or.

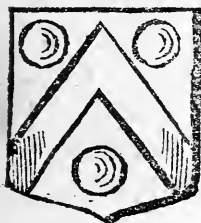

Barnard of Upton-Leonard; He beareth Argent, a Bear saliant Sable, muffed Or. Crest. A demy Bear saliant Sable, muffed Or.

Barrington of Essex; He beareth Argent, three Chevrons Gules, and a File of three Points (or Lambeaux) Azure.

Barrom of Quodgley in Gloucestershire; He beareth Sable, two Swords in Saltire Argent, Hilts and Pomels (extending to the base Points) Or. Crest. An Amazonian Woman, proper.

Baskerville of Herefordshire; He beareth Argent, a Chevron Gules between three Hurts. This Chevron was formerly charg'd with six Cross-Crosetts, but they are now diffus'd. The Roundles thus nam'd are taken for the Fruit of a Bilberry, Hurtle or Whortleberry-Bush; I do not therefore make mention of their Colour, because they are always suppos'd to be Azure.

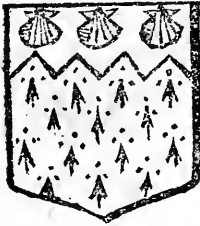

N. B. To satisfy the Minds of such curious, yet ignorant Persons, who cannot imagine how 'tis possible there should be so many different Forms of Bearing, as they seem to grant they imagine there are; I shall show them how many different Coats the above plain one wou'd make, only by varying the Colours, without the Addition of any other Charge, Counterchangings, Partings, or altering the Lines of or in the Chevron, which wou'd make above four times as many more.

1st. The Field being Argent, may produce 49 Coats, Or, as many, in all 98.

2dly. Each of the Colours in the Field, will make 4 different Arms, in all 28, which added to the above, is 126; and some of these you will find in the following Examples.

Basset of Uliegh in Gloucestershire; He beareth Ermine, on a Canton Or, a Mullet Gules. Crest. A Falcon displaid Argent. A Canton is so nam'd, because it Occupies but a Cantel or Corner of the Escocheon.

Basset, another; He beareth Ermine, on a Chief indented Gules, three Escallops Or. The bearing of Escallops, signifies, that the first Owner was a Commander, who by his Valour and Vertue endear'd himself to his Followers, and in Requital of their Love had ventur'd to sacrifice himself for their Safety.

The Rt. Hon. Allen Bathurst, Ld. Bathurst, bears; Diamond, two Bars Ermine, in Chief three Crois-Pattées Topaz. Crest. A Bay-Horse tripping, Manned and tayl'd Diamond.

Baynham; The Field is Gules, a Chevron between three Bulls Heads couped Argent, armed Or. Crest. A Bull's Head couped Argent. The bearing of a Bull, or the Head thereof, is a Note of Valour and Magnanimity.

Sir Justus Beck, Bar. beareth Quarterly three Coats; viz. 1st. Or, a Raven proper. 2d. and 3d. Sable, a Mullet Or. 4th. Azure, a Dolphin hauriant Argent, on an Inescocheon, the Arms of Ulster.

Beddingfield,

of HERALDRY. B

Beddingfield or Bedingfielde; The Field is Ermine, an Eagle displaid Sable. This Family is of great Note, in the Counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, and Gloucester. An Eagle displaid signifies a Man of an ingenious, lofty Spirit, af-fiduous in the Performance of great and noble Actions.

Belgrave of Leicestershire; The Field is Gules, a Chevron Ermine between three Mascles Argent. The Masle in Heraldry is taken for the Mash of a Net, and Nets in Scripture are Hieroglyphicks of Perswasion. But in a Field Gules, they signifie the Bearer to have been most prudent in the Arts of War.

Bell of Upwell in Norfolk; He beareth Sable, a Fesse Ermine between 3 Bells Argent.

The Rt. Hon. Thomas Bellafyse, Vis. Falconberg, beareth; Pearl, a Chevron Ruby between three Fleurs de Lis Saphire.

Belvale; He beareth Argent, Billette Sable. In blazoning of Billets, if under eleven you must mention their Number, but when above ten, it suffices to say Billette.

The

Betfield; Party per Fesse, Gules and Ermine, a File of five Points Argent.

Beverly of Bedfordshire; He beareth Ermine, a Rose Gules, barbed and feeded proper. I term this Rose Gules, because Red is no more its proper Co-lour than White or Yellow, and for that Reason it could not be said to be proper.

Bevers of Hogsdon; The Field is Ar-gent, a Chevron between three Cynk-foils Gules. Crest. On a Torce Argent and Gules, a Demy-Wivern Vert, ar-ned and ogled Gules. The Number of Leaves in this Herb, answers to the five Senses in Man; and he that can conquer his Affections and Appetite, is a worthy Bearer of such a Charge, and a greater Hero than Cesar or Alexander.

*When all are conquer'd, greater Glory's won,
If by himself the Conqueror's outdone.*

Bevill

The GRAMMAR

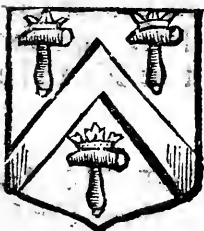

Beville of Cornwall; The Field is Ermine, a Bull passant Gules, armed and unguled Or. The Arms of a Bull are his Horns, the Term Unguled is deriv'd of the Latin Word Ungula, which signifies the Hoofe of a Beast.

Blackhall of Exeter in the County of Devon; The Field is Argent, a Greyhound courant Sable, on a Chief indented of the same, three Besants. The Besant is suppos'd to be a Plate of Gold prepared for the Mint.

Sir Rich. Blackmore of Middlesex, Kt. bears; Or, on a Fesse Sable, between three Negroes Heads eraz'd proper, as many Crescents of the ist. Crest. On a Torse Or and Sable, a Negroes Head eraz'd proper. Gwillim says the Crescents are Argent.

The Method to which I confin'd my self, e're I began this Book, wou'd have occasion'd a considerable Blank in this Page, to avoid which I have transcribed out of The Accidence of Armory, the Nine Badges of Geratting.

The first are Crosses, simple and fitched, whereof 4 are most ancient, viz. Plain Crosses, Crosses flory, Cross Crosetts, and Crosses Patonce.

2. The second Badge are Fleurs de Lis.

3. The third are Roselets, that is to say single Roses, that have but five Leaves a Piece.

4. The fourth is Quarterfoils, or Primroses.

5. The fifth Cinkfoils, both pierced and whole.

6. The sixth Diacles or Scopperelles. By which I believe he means Escallops.

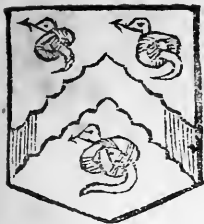

7. The seventh Chaplets, or Wreaths (formerly) of Pearl, now for the most Part made of Herbs or Flowers.

8. The eighth Sort are Mulletts of five Points, whether whole or pierced.

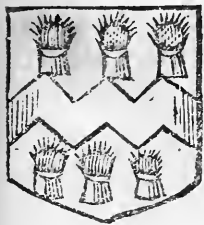

9. The ninth and last are Crescents.

Now let the Reader observe, that is a gerated Coat, in which any of these Badges are born, under the Number of eleven; he must also remember, that tho' the Fields of divers Coat Armours are gerated with other Things, yet the nine above (as most ancient) must be accounted to be most honourable.
